• RULES OF CONDUCT:

Your use of the account implies agreement with the following statement.

"I agree to abide by the following rules of conduct. I acknowledge that my failure to do so may result in the denial of my access to the Instructional systems and may also warrant further disciplinary action by the University.

1) I will obey all University policies. Please see http://inst.eecs.berkeley.edu/policies.html.
2) I will not use the computers to transmit or display anything that violates the rights of the recipient or of others in the lab.
3) I will not use a false identity in email or other communications via computer.
4) I will not attempt or participate in unauthorized entry into another user's account or into another system. I will not view another person's computer files without permission or plagiarize from their computer files.
5) I will not share the use of my account or give my password to anyone else.
6) I will not copy or distribute any available software without permission from the author or from the sys admins. Improper use of copyrighted materials is illegal and I know that I could be prosecuted for it.
7) I will use this account only for EECS coursework.
8) I will not bring food or drinks into the labs."

These statements define your rights as well as the restrictions concerning your use of this account. If you think you have been the victim of any of these offenses, please notify us immediately (inst@eecs.berkeley.edu, 378 Cory & 333 Soda).

• ABOUT YOUR ACCOUNT:

- ☞ This account is provided for EECS coursework only. It is valid only on the EECS Instructional computers.
- ☞ If you are an L&S CS or EECS major, this account will be renewed automatically each semester.
- ☞ If you are not in the major, this account will expire at the end of the semester.
- ☞ Your privacy: The systems management staff respects your right to privacy. The staff will deliberately look at the files in your account only if (1) there is evidence of a breach in security or conduct related to your account, or (2) if you or an instructor request it. However, please be aware that normal management functions, such as data archiving, may inadvertently expose the contents of some files to trusted management staff.
